

M.P. Disputes Translation Of Statement

OTTAWA, June 30.—(CP)—Lionel Compton, Liberal Member of Parliament, said yesterday in an interview that an extract from the official translation into English of his Friday speech to the House of Commons—basis of criticism by Prime Minister Mackenzie King Monday—was not an accurate translation.

Mr. Compton said in French on Friday. He said yesterday he was quoted correctly in the French version of the Hansard record of his speech, as saying: "Vous avez dans le Gouvernement trois ou quatre millions de francs de plus."

PROPER TRANSLATION
He said that sentence should have been translated to read: "We have in the Government side of the House three new millionaires since the outbreak of the war."

The official English translation read Monday by Mr. King, quoted him as saying: "We have here in the cabinet three new millionaires who have made their money since the war's outbreak."

Mr. King also read the two following sentences: "We shall denounce them at the proper time and place. Fortunes are being built up."

"It is not correct to translate 'government' by the English word 'cabinet,'" Mr. Compton said. "The word 'government' is meant all the supporters of the government, not only the members of the cabinet but parliamentarians and all other Liberal members."

DISCLAIMERS PHRASE
Then he underlined with a pencil the words "who have made their money" in the English translation of the speech.

"That phrase is not included in what I said in French," Mr. Compton said.

Asked if he had been referring in his Friday speech to members who as millionaires, had entered the government ranks since the outbreak of war or to three government supporters who had become millionaires since the war, Mr. Compton declined to answer.

"I am not making a statement," he said. "You wanted to know whether the translation was accurate and I said it was not."

PLANS NO STATEMENT
He said that he did not intend to refer to the matter on the floor of the house "unless it is brought up again by somebody else."

In his statement to the House of Commons Monday, Prime Minister King said, after reading the extract from the translation into English: "The proper time and place to make a statement of that kind is in this house of commons with the honorable member simultaneously undertaking to make the charge."

Corvette Men In Sub Attack Given Awards

OTTAWA, June 30.—(CP)—The officers and six ratings of the Canadian corvette Regine have received awards for their part in sinking an Italian submarine in the surface of the Mediterranean with depth charges and forcing its crew to surrender, the navy announced last night.

The sinking of the submarine was announced by Navy Minister Macdonald in March.

THE AWARDS
Distinguished Service Order—Lt.-Comdr. Harry Frieland, 36, R.C.N.R. of Sydney, N.S., who directed the attack against the U-boat.

Distinguished Service Cross—Sub-Lt. R. H. Thomas, R.C.N.V.R. of Longueuil, Que.

Distinguished Service Medal—Chief Engine Room Artificer Albert Hurst of Dartmouth, N.S., and L.S. Stanley Jr. of Sydney of Port Credit, Ont.

Mention in Despatches—Acting CPO Jack W. Winn of Halifax, N.S.; AB. J. M. Sullivan of Meleag River, N.S.; AB. John Trevor Martin of Ottawa; and OS. T. V. Canavan of Perth, Ont.

The sea victory occurred when the Regine attacked the submarine at close range after dropping depth charges. Of the U-boat's crew, 21 were rescued and taken prisoner. The Regine was the third of the Canadian corvettes which went to the Mediterranean waters last autumn to assist in Allied operations against the U-boat menace.

Hundreds For Invasion Britain's Deadly New Typhoon Effective as Fighter-Bomber

By LEWIS HAWKINS
AN R.A.F. BASE IN ENGLAND, June 30.—(AP)—The swift Typhoon plane has moved into the ranks of fighter-bombers and has already proved effective in support of United States heavy bombers, it was disclosed today as newsmen were given their first look at Britain's newest air invasion weapon.

R.A.F. pilots are confident that the latest version of one of the world's fastest planes—which a fighter has been largely responsible for training German snark raiders—will be at the forefront in close support of Allied landing armies in Europe.

They are convinced, too, that it will make the job of U.S. Fortress and Liberator easier by blowing up Nazi fighters on the ground, and by attacking German air bases.

CARRIES TWO BOMBS
At a sacrifice of only 10 to 15 miles from top speed, which is in the neighborhood of 400 M.P.H., the Typhoon carries a 500-pound bomb under each wing and pilots are perfecting a bombing technique which has knocked out a large number of German fighters on airfields.

When the bombs are gone, the Typhoon reverts to its original role as a deadly fighter plane with a full supply of ammunition for the four 20-millimeter cannon in its wings.

A few days ago, while U.S. Fortresses were over France, Typhoons of the R.A.F. were seen to assist in the attack on the German air base at Hamm, France, by attacking the enemy's anti-aircraft defenses.

"One of the Jerries making a takeoff ran right into a burst and simply disintegrated," Crowley-Milling said. "And there were a

Crops' Growth Stimulated by Warm Weather

OTTAWA, June 30.—(CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday that warmer weather during the past week stimulated the growth of crops in all parts of Canada. "But there is still a need for sunshine and heat in most sections."

Crops made fairly rapid growth over the greater part of the three prairie provinces during the past week as the result of generally warmer weather, but sunshine and heat in larger doses are still needed to hasten development of all crops, especially the late sown grains.

Early wheat and barley are in the lush blade and the height of wheat varies from an average of nine inches in Saskatchewan to about 16 inches in sections of Manitoba.

ALL WHEAT ROOTED
All crops are well rooted and a good seed to heat and sunshine where the moisture supply is favorable, but in the dry sections of grain fields because of the lack of rain on the range.

A forest damage is noted in places, but grass on the whole is not serious. Some injury to flax was caused by a windstorm in Saskatchewan on June 23, but the flax crop on the whole appears to be doing fairly well on a much larger acreage.

Summer and rape seed crops in Manitoba are doing fairly well, but corn is backward.

prizes, and also the projects which either the United States or Canada was undertaking singly in the north-west, is represented in the field by Gen. Foster.

Born in Bristol, Eng., Gen. Foster came to Canada as a young man. He was deputy minister of public works for British Columbia for five years, and later was elected to the legislative assembly of that province.

He joined the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles as a captain at the outbreak of the First Great War, eventually becoming commander of the 9th Brigade. After the last war he commanded the British Columbia regiment (Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles) for five years and later he commanded the 23rd Infantry Brigade.

Marching is Parching!

Fighters, in training, have no picnic. Crawling through barbed wire... climbing over obstacles... all the while carrying heavy field equipment. No wonder the camp cautions is so popular during rest periods.

And no wonder, either, that Canada Dry Ginger Ale is such a favorite in the camps! It quenches thirst faster, it lives up to its name, it's always there when you need it—just what a needed—and its high quality is always the same—everywhere.

Canada DRY
The Champion of Camps

It was significant, said Mr. Reid, that when the federal government placed British Columbia Japanese in eastern provinces it was always with the assurance that they would be removed after the war. It was no wonder that the people of British Columbia had some misgivings about the likelihood of having these people back on their hands.

Japanese in Canada looked upon Canadians with "disdain" as "the dirt under their feet," Mr. Reid said. They had put it over the government in some cases and "blatantly" with gifts some of those closely associated to the government.

Mr. Mitchell said Mr. Reid should be more explicit and say what government officials had been blatted with gifts. "Wouldn't a trip to Japan be a good idea," asked George Cruickshank (Lib. Fraser Valley).

Mr. Reid said it was not a member of the labor department, but it was an official and he could prove what he said. He promised to return.

All Surpluses Of Beef To Be Sent Britain

OTTAWA, June 30.—(CP)—Any surplus of Canadian beef in excess of domestic requirements will be exported to the United Kingdom in the form of frozen meat, L. W. Pearson, manager of the Canadian Meat Board, yesterday told the Commons Agriculture Committee.

An agreement had been reached with Great Britain and the United States that Canadian meat surpluses should go to the United Kingdom, Mr. Pearson said. No definite date was set for the procedure was likely to last at least for the duration of the war.

Drop Agreement
In other years Canadian beef surpluses for the most part went to the United States as live cattle. Under the agreement this movement, which has been halted temporarily because of the beef shortage, will not be resumed.

R. S. Hamer, director of production services and the agriculture department's principal expert on beef, explained how the Meat Board planned to handle any beef surpluses which may arise. There is no surplus at present, even with the rationing now in force.

From now until Aug. 1, the board will buy beef at 25 cents per hundred pounds below ceiling prices, which vary in different markets. On Aug. 1, the board's price will drop to 20 cents per hundred pounds, and on Sept. 1, another cut, when it will be 15 cents a pound below the ceiling which will be steady all year.

If the market prices for beef drop to the extent that the price is ready to sell to the board at its own price, the board will take off the market. It will be frozen in storage and returned to the domestic market at a shorter time delay, or it will be shipped to the United Kingdom.

PRICES NOT SET
The prices to the United Kingdom have not yet been finally decided, but negotiations are in progress. Producers will be assured a steady price for at least the duration of the war, Mr. Hamer said, but so far there was no indication how much beef would be available for Britain.

to give the name to the minister privately. "It would not be nice to put his name on Hazard."

MUST BE SUBSTANTIATED
Mr. Mitchell insisted that such a statement should not be made unless the member was ready to substantiate it.

Mr. Cruickshank interrupted to say that the minister had no right to interrupt the member for New Westminster.

"I am not going to be lectured by the honorable member," Mr. Mitchell declared.

"And I'm not going to be lectured by you either," Mr. Cruickshank retorted.

There are no BOMB CRAVERS in our fields . . . YET !

These are grim and dangerous days, grimmer and more dangerous than most of us realize. While a ruthless enemy is bending his best efforts to destroy our vital food supplies, we can still peacefully carry on our duties on the farm. We must make the most of our time, putting every available acre of our fertile land to work, to produce FOOD for our people, our armies and our allies.

FOOD IS VITAL FOR VICTORY

You may be a school teacher, or a student, you may be a business or professional man, office or factory worker, store keeper or clerk—no matter who you may be, if you have a few days, weeks or months of leisure this summer, you can make an important contribution to Canada's war effort by taking temporary work on a farm. It cannot be sufficiently emphasized how urgently the Nation needs additional farm help, YOUR help, to meet the ever increasing demands for FOOD. Every year Canada sends millions of pounds of food to feed our kinsmen and allies abroad, and with many thousands of our people in the fighting services and the war factories we ask you to help fill the gap. Knowing how our very existence depends on victory, and how much depends on FOOD to win that victory, we appeal to you to lend your willing aid.

This is what YOU should do . . . ACT NOW!

Preparations and Weapons for an Invasion (Cont'd)

THE AIR FORCE (Cont'd)

At the initial stages of the invasion battle sufficient artillery support cannot be made available against the defender's positions, and it will take a relatively long time before his medium and heavy artillery can be matched and fought in any other manner than from the air. The air force therefore has to replace the invader's artillery.

The continued maintenance of at least a five-to-one superiority in the air will be necessary for a successful invasion. This means that whatever the losses are, the air force of the invader has to be replaced at least every four hours a day, both for attack and protection, and it is not possible to keep air crews for any length of time without sufficient periods of rest. This necessity multiplies the number of planes and crews. The invader's air force also has the particularly difficult task of replacing artillery in the initial stages. It uses action not only near the battle front itself but at a great depth far into the heart of Germany. The attack troops, which must stay in the front line under most exhausting conditions for at least several days, particularly during the night, need much more protection and support from the air than the defender's forces, which are well dug in and can be frequently released.

PROVIDING BASES
It is not the production of such a great number of planes or the training of so many crews that is so difficult; we can be sure that the Allies could reach such a superiority with relative ease within a reasonable time. The difficulty lies rather in providing bases for the initial attacks and in organizing the refueling and repairs for this air armada, once the enemy shores have been reached. It is this particular problem that will make it necessary to choose regions that are not too distant from Allied bases as goals for an invasion.

In order to use fighters over long distances it might be necessary to construct simple carriers that could serve as relays for intermediate stops, landings, sort of jumping boards, and that could also be used as floating gas stations. Since they would not permanently carry any aircraft, their construction would be simpler and they could be built faster and in greater numbers than larger carriers. Their use in quantity would be of the greatest advantage, especially for invasion of coasts at more than fighter range from Allied bases.

Improvements in the designing of new types of aircraft should be made as goals for an invasion.

which aircraft will be put in connection with the invasion battle. Some of the following groups will have to be put under separate commands and will be attached to special naval units or land forces.

1.—Aircraft covering the sea transport of the invasion troops and their supplies.

2.—Aircraft co-operating with the light naval forces seeking at sea the flanks of the invader's fleet.

3.—Aircraft protecting and co-operating with the battle squadrons destined to fight off interfering enemy forces.

4.—Aircraft to soften up the enemy's defenses by attacks against his positions, his communication lines, and his rear.

5.—Aircraft for the exclusive fighting of the enemy's artillery.

6.—Aircraft for the direct support of the attacking land troops in close co-operation with them.

7.—Aircraft for the transport of reinforcements and supplies.

8.—Aircraft for the transport of guerrilla units and parachute troops to places behind the enemy's lines far to the rear.

9.—Bombing squadrons for interrupting the enemy's communications and communication points far into enemy countries.

Some of these groups, according to their purposes, particularly those with protective functions, will be planned in altitude. There will be the sub-astronautic squadrons patrolling the high altitude, and these troops will be truly "three-dimensional."

CO-OPERATION VITAL
Closest co-operation between the low-altitude squadrons and the ground forces is vital, and the most intensive training efforts must be made in order to get perfect results.

The victories of the glorious British Eighth Army are certainly due in part to this co-operation.

Our confidence in our ability to carry out the tremendous military task that a sea-borne invasion represents is due mainly to the achievements and the superiority of the Allied air force. The tactics for the decisive attack must therefore be basically rest upon the use of this weapon. It will be employed particularly in the first stages of the invasion with all its overwhelming power and vigor. In later stages such an offensive work of the air force must also remain the backbone of all tactical moves.

Whereas in previous wars and in the previous stages of this war we could speak of land battles with air support, we can now speak of battles fought by combined air and land forces. The enemy's resistance and morale, his ability to reinforce and supply troops, will in future battles be weakened by air attack to a degree that could never be reached previously by infantry and artillery alone.

Parachute Troops and Guerrilla Patrols
Parachute troops as a weapon of modern warfare have received a great amount of publicity. Even the Russians, who have been rather reluctant in spreading information about their military preparations, have proudly shown films and illustrated reports on the training and efficiency of this arm. America has followed this example to a large degree. Still, after three years of war, we know very little about the actual combat experience of these troops. There has been only one outstanding achievement made by this arm—the seizure of Crete by the Germans. It was in 1941 an unqualified success. However, it was not conclusive, because at the stage of the war British troops were neither sufficiently well equipped nor adequately trained to stand up against a persistent, thoroughly organized assault with modern weapons. Nor did they then fully realize how vital it is in modern warfare to use every hour, day and night, not absorbed by actual fighting, for the construction of strong defense positions, carefully planned with imagination and forethought.

"Funny thing, I was thinking I'd like to join up with the Coast Guard, too!"

Against well-equipped troops with battle experience and the equipment of, say, the British Eighth Army, the Germans could have succeeded in their air-borne attack.

There have been other local successes by parachute troops, mostly again on the German side. We have heard of episodes in the war against the Greek mainland, and we know that in the Russian campaign both sides have occasionally been successful in the use of this arm. But on the whole it seems that the results these troops have achieved have not as yet lived up to the general expectations.

The occasional inappropriate use of this weapon is probably responsible for this disappointment. They have tried to land directly at points of particular strategic or tactical importance. Such points are likely to be well protected and covered by

Debate on Labor Bank-Held Extra Wages Suggested For Miners To Boost Coal Output

OTTAWA, June 30.—(CPI)—Suggestion that Canadian coal supplies be ensured through payments into banks which would be collected by coal miners in the future was made in the House of Commons last night by Ralph Maybank (Lab., Winnipeg South Centre). This money, he said, should be in addition to their ordinary wages.

Mr. Maybank, speaking in his capacity as a member of the House of Commons, said that the suggestion was "unconventional" and the government should take it into consideration. He suggested also that small coal-mining operations might be bought out by the government, thus understanding that men working in these mines would be larger mining establishments where coal was mined more efficiently.

CLAIMS SECRET ADVISER

At the start of last night's sitting, Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib., Temiscouata) claimed the government had "secretly" taken action to bring the British mining industry to an end. He had criticized the Minister of the day and had been told by the Minister that the British mining industry had been granted six months' leave by R. H. French, British Minister of Mines, that the Canadian government had given a similar leave to the British.

There were plenty of men in Canada capable of advising the government on the mining industry, Mr. Pouliot, speaking in committee, said that the government was in the war against the measure.

Mr. Maybank said that when it was suggested that the government should take action to bring the British mining industry to an end, it was a "manpower muddle" but that he had been told by the Minister that the British mining industry had been granted six months' leave by R. H. French, British Minister of Mines, that the Canadian government had given a similar leave to the British.

H. French, British Minister of Mines, that the Canadian government had given a similar leave to the British.

Mr. Maybank said that when it was suggested that the government should take action to bring the British mining industry to an end, it was a "manpower muddle" but that he had been told by the Minister that the British mining industry had been granted six months' leave by R. H. French, British Minister of Mines, that the Canadian government had given a similar leave to the British.

Three Loom as Favorites Canadian Derby to be Run At Winnipeg Dominion Day

WINNIPEG, June 30.—(CP)—An eastern bred horse and two western thoroughbreds loom as favorites for the third running of the rich $5,000 three-year-old Canadian Derby July 1 at Polo Park.

The eastern horse is Sweepgold, owned by Harry C. Hatch of Toronto, while the western horses are Western Prince, owned by the Montreal Brasserie stable and Baby Broom, the property of H. A. Shepherd of Winnipeg, Alberta.

Hatch's Sweepgold will be the lone eastern entry in the race which will pay the winner $5,000 and the breeder $250. A winner of $1,620 last year, Sweepgold comes to western Canada well-regarded.

SET RECORD

Early this spring he set a record for a mile and 70 yards at Toronto Woodbine and in the recent 1943 renewal of the historic King's Plate he set the pace only to fall back in later stages to finish seventh.

Shipped here with a fever, the horse has only recently approached Derby form. In his first start, barely recovered from his sickness, he finished seventh to Rhony Moon in the Western Canada Handicap.

Western Prince was western juvenile champion last year, posting five "races" on second and fourth to accumulate $3,145 in winnings. Shipped to Calgary for the Alberta Derby this spring, the Prince beat other derby candidates over a six and one-half furlong trial and wound up third in the BARGAIN COLT.

Baby Broom, bargain colt of this year's derby as he was bought as a foal for $25, was the winner of the Alberta Derby.

Last year's Canadian Derby was won by Magnet Line, owned by Dr. L. H. Appleby of Vancouver. Magnet Line defeated a field which included the highly rated Ten To Ace. The Ace, owned by Harry Giddings of Oakville, Ont., was a 1-10 favorite but finished last in a six-horse race after leading the field for most of the mile and a quarter distance.

Seven and possibly eight thoroughbreds will start in this year's derby. In addition to Sweepgold, Western Prince and Baby Broom, other eligibles are Buddy Marcus, owned by C. F. Fahy of Calgary, Harry Junior, from Austin, Tex., Larry Junior, owned by J. V. Yates of Calgary, Pagan Pilot and Jewelade, both from Calgary stable.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Baseball goes to war today—and it's east against west in the opening of a drive to pile $500,000 or more into the coffers of various war relief agencies.

The National League plays three doubleheaders and a night game in the east while the American circuit stages two twin bills and a pair of games under lights in the west. The sectional situation will be reversed on a second day, July 26, with proceeds of the annual July 25 star game tossed in for good measure.

Each league is determined to outdo the other in attempting to top the $500,000 raised for this cause in 1942. The aim is identical, but both leagues are shooting for the honor of contributing the most and the result promises to be a cross-country medicine show that would delight President T. Barnum.

Under the guidance of President Fred Frick, the National League called on motion picture stars to display trim ankles on baseballs usually "graced" by bulky baseball players, turned Dixie Walker, the people's "chance" in Flatbush, into a crooner, and lined up WAVE and WAAC drill teams.

Not to be outdone, American League proxy William Harridge coaxed his clubs into going all out with such turntable magnets as parades, drills, field events and a rare between Detroit manager Steve O'Neill and Boston slugger Joe Cronin in which they will brush whetstones from home plate while blindfolded. (During this event everyone will please move into the upper grand stand.)

THE DAY'S PROGRAM

AMERICAN LEAGUE

WASHINGTON at Chicago, two games: Lefty, Ted Lyons, former White Sox pitcher, will lead a marine detachment drill and the Great Lakes naval training station band will perform.

Philadelphia at St. Louis, night game: The Lambert Field Flyers and Jefferson Barracks reception centre teams play a preliminary game.

Boston at Detroit, two games: Headlined by the O'Neill-Cronin match race, followed by inter-club field events such as sprinting, base running, carrying and long-distance throwing and fudge hitting. Winners to receive $25 war bonds. (No added starters accepted.)

New York at Cleveland, night game: A pregame parade of service men and women.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

ST. LOUIS at New York, two games: Madeline Carroll and Frank Sinatra lead a musing of United Nations colors followed by field events in which the Giants turn boys-for-a-day and challenge the St. Louis swiftness.

Cincinnati at Brooklyn, two games: Dixie Walker, the golden voice of baseball (Branch Rickey hopes) sings a solo over the public address system; Al Schach, crown prince of baseball, presents the Red rider in dandies field events.

Chicago at Boston, two games: Navy, WAAC and WAVE drill teams exhibit, an army band will perform and field events.

Pittsburgh at Philadelphia, night game: Bill Cox, the Philadelphia magician, hosts a revival of his plans but associates say the real fun is as amusing as the reversal in the fortunes of the former. "Philly" If it's half as good, the Phillies should make the National League walkway in the dollar division.

Coast Horsemen Reach Agreement

VANCOUVER, June 30.—(CP)—A compromise was reached yesterday between the Vancouver Thoroughbred Association and the West Coast Horsemen's Association in a dispute over purse, assuring Vancouver's 42-day racing season would get away as scheduled tomorrow at Hastings Park.

The Horsemen's Association, representing more than 40 owners, had threatened not to enter for today's races unless $500 minimum purses were established in place of three $300 events scheduled daily. They agreed to enter, however, when the Thoroughbred Association promised that if the

EDMONTON GIRL, CANADIAN SAILOR, MARRY AT WINDSOR

Wilma Wilkins
Pledges Vows

Oliver Baptist church, Windsor, Ont., was the scene of a pretty wedding service early in June when Miss Wilma Beatrice Wilkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilkins of Edmonton, pledged roses with Stoker First Class, George James Jenkins, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. Lily Jenkins of Central avenue, and the late Samuel Jenkins. The Rev. Harold R. Stephens officiated.

Given in marriage by Oliver Ross of Detroit, the bride made a pretty picture in her afternoon length gown of cream blue marquisette, studded with bouffant skirt and fitted bodice through which ran a ribbon of darker blue. She wore an off-the-face model hat to tone with her ensemble and carried a small bouquet of red roses and white snapdragons.

Matron-of-honor was Mrs. Cyril Francis, who carried an ensemble of black and white, and carried a small bouquet of red roses and white snapdragons. Mrs. Francis was the bridesmaid.

A buffet lunch was served in two parlors following the service, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis on Fraser avenue. Miss Jenkins, in the evening, will be the member of the wedding party, with a gown of white and white printed dress, with navy accents and corsage of red and white carnations.

The reception table, centered with three-tiered wedding cake and low bowls of sweetbread roses, was lighted by the use of white and blue tapers in shades of red, white and blue.

The couple spent a honeymoon at Toronto and Niagara Falls. For travelling the bride wore a black tailcoat, accented by touches of white.
